

Gold Standard Executive Summary

Sawyer Tucker, Chris Nash, Greg Wagner, Daniel Brickman

In our capstone project, we will answer questions concerning the most basic commodities of the United States, like corn, wheat, and soybeans. We will discover the changes in the value of these commodities, both in the short term and long term, in relation to the US dollar and gold. We will also discover the causes of the changing prices of these commodities and attempt to accurately predict these prices in the future. Furthermore, we will discover who the greatest producers and consumers of these commodities are, both domestically and internationally. Our target audience is the rest of class and higher-level management at Dev10 and future clients.
